

Across

- 1 something you have too many of (6)
- 5 IoT security researcher Santamarta (5)
- 8 technology that extends a private network across a public network (3)
- 9 PoisonIvy, Dark Comet, or Blackshades (3)
- 10 thing you need to encrypt or sing well (3)
- 11 Mini, Cozy, Onion and Cosmic (5)
- 12 e-commerce attack that hit Macy's (8)
- 17 place to outsource security tasks (4)
- 18 mobile phone social engineering attack (11)
- 21 exploited in Equifax breach (12)
- 23 network security tool that tries to stop infiltrators (3)
- 25 US government office that exposed millions of federal employees PII in 2015 (3)
- 27 tool for stealing credit card numbers (7)
- 28 popular place to put misconfigured, leaky cloud buckets (3)
- 29 convert passwords to unreadable strings or a good way to prepare potatoes (4)
- 33 ransomware that took down the City of Atlanta (6)
- 36 international interbank messaging system exploited in bank heists (5)
- 37 retail company hit with record-setting breach (3)

- 38 certification for pen testers (3)
- 7 office that set landmark cybersecurity policy for New York finance industry (5)
- 8 exploitable software bug, for short (4)
- 13 European privacy law (4)
- 14 common infosec certification (5)
- 15 kind of bounty (3)
- 16 something you have too many of (9)
- 17 fastest-spreading virus of its time, in 1999 (7)
- 19 Austrian privacy activist (7)
- 20 ransomworm that stormed the world in 2018 (8)
- 22 the worst kind of privileges to be exposed (5)
- 24 SMS attack (5)
- 26 a type of attack that intercepts communications (4)
- 30 sophisticated attack group, for short (3)
- 31 white, black, or gray item (3)
- 32 unlawful data exposure (3)
- 34 tool for finding malware, for short (2)
- 35 home base for security first responders (3)
- 6 Microsoft RDP vulnerability that prompted out-of-band patches (8)
- 1 entertainment company hit with massive IP theft and wiper in 2014 (4)
- 4 retailer that was compromised via a third party HVAC contractor and exposed 40M credit card numbers (6)
- 3 Microsoft RDP vulnerability that