

Cryptic 014 by Leucine

1		2		3		4		5		6		7		8
9								10
11								12
13				14						15
16		17				18		19
20						21		22				23		24
25								26		27
28								29

Across

- 9 Semiannual twelve-hour day in Harlequin-Oxford link-up. (7)
- 10 I hear you will chronicle a Christmas tradition. (4,3)
- 11 Kiss-kiss, 'e rode away and made copies! (7)
- 12 Metropolis malefactor I hoodwink into dictionary. (7)
- 13 One run only, no hundred for sacristan: schools like Eton or Roedean, perhaps? (6-3)
- 15 Ingenu biases cover part of Southern Egypt. (5)
- 16 Avian element of self-rhyming arts obsessive. (7)
- 19 Arab sax played for gnostic deity (by Santana, perhaps?). (7)
- 20 Sax played back about

- Caesar's eleven, part of Cartesian plot. (1-4)
- 21 US troops surround back part of cave on holiday for freebies. (9)
- 25 Gnat drops a thousand on level to become more dapper. (7)
- 26 Old-time tobacco peddler now supplying pedallers? (7)
- 28 Ballesteros sick at heart in Andalusia. (7)
- 29 Gent following Easter without hesitation developed film. (7)

Down

- 1 No Clue
- 2 Regular extracts from letters of Turner ruin self-rhyming social exercise. (3,3)

- 3 Steer around Gotham delivering gemstone. (4)
- 4 Old flame takes overdose, you and I make departure. (6)
- 5 Ad sexily misrepresents reading disorder. (8)
- 6 Da, relax in a city of Northern Egypt. (10)
- 7 Colourless fight by Queensberry Rules leads to discovery of flight recorder. (5,3)
- 8 Kampala folk, for example, see unhesitant Mr. Goose linked to article in America. (8)
- 14 French King, French town, birthplace of Ali. (10)
- 16 Shiv in ex.....just like a foxy lady? (8)

- 17 It gets you going: Tinseltown landing spot at one with Caesar's five euro. (8)
- 18 Canyon inside terminus becomes swollen. (8)
- 22 Bug around Irish television station for summit. (6)
- 23 Mantra among aligned powers reveals self-evident truths. (6)
- 24 Empty Sussex swallows no more morphine for Giza monument. (6)
- 27 Not as much? That's helpless, helpless. (4)